Upon entering UF, I was determined to be involved in organizations I was passionate about. The Black Student Union was the first organization I joined, and I became a member of its Homecoming staff during my freshman year. During my sophomore year I participated in UF Homecoming’s annual Soulfest as the Marketing Director. I then became a member of a community service organization called SISTUHS, Inc. where I then served as one of the community service chairs the following year. In addition, I was accepted in the inaugural class of the Women’s Leadership Institute, which is under the Women’s Student Association. This experience has led me to serve as one of the Program Planners for Women’s History Month. I would like to pursue a career in Human Resources Management, where I can ensure that employees are following the policies and procedures outlined by companies. I chose to serve on the Student Advisory Board because it is important for all UF students to be aware of how they can give back to the community. It was through the Center for Leadership and Service that I learned of the many opportunities to do community service.
